

A JOHN FRY DEVELOPMENT

The Fry Tradition

The Fry Family is as native to Wheatland Township as the Tamarack tree. With roots stretching back to Switzerland, the family began its American heritage in 1647, with Hans Martin Fry's arrival in New York state, and extended to Illinois in 1854, when Jacob moved his young family here. The Fry's generations-long appreciation of our nation's history and their traditional respect for the land come together to make Tamarack Fairways a one-of-a-kind community.

Five years in the planning, Tamarack Fairways meticulously reflects the Fry trademark of excellence—a significant imprint on this rapidly growing area. With the development of more than 1600 lots and nine residential communities, the Fry's and their associates have proven time and again that large homes naturally belong on spacious lots. To do otherwise compromises the balance between nature and neighborhood.
